The internet is exploding with creative ways to connect with people. Whether you're a painter, sculptor, dancer, or musician, the internet can be a powerful tool for building an audience and making money. We will spend time brain storming, writing and sharing.

She has extensive experience in all aspects of internet marketing including: building websites and blogs, getting websites to rank in the search engines (aka search engine optimization), shopping carts, building mailings lists, and social networking. She prides herself on explaining the internet in plain English.
