Art On Broadway Featured Artists for September 2014

“Broad Strokes Of Color” - Exhibit At Art On Broadway Gallery. Works by photographer, Don Schwartz, and new member potter, Wally Schwab, are featured at Art On Broadway in September, 2014.

This month Schwartz offers a splash of color in his images rather than his usual selection of black and white photography as he focuses on the vibrant hills and rustic homesteads of Eastern Washington’s Palouse region, Oregon’s southern coast, and the tranquil beauty of Portland’s Japanese Garden.

Wally Schwab is an internationally renowned master potter whose work is in many private and public collections. He brings an array of distinctive patterns, colors and firing techniques to this exhibit.

The public is invited to a reception with refreshments and wine compliments of Potter’s Vineyard, from 6:00pm to 9:00pm, Saturday, September 13, 2014.

The exhibit opens September 5, 2014

Gallery Hours: Tuesday through Saturday 11:00am to 6:00pm.

You Do Speak English, Don't You?

A show by Mark and Helena Greathouse

Mark and Helena Greathouse, an international husband and wife music duo, present their one hour performance, "You Do Speak English, Don't You?" as a family friendly, lively cabaret style program. The core part of the show had two successful showings at the Portland Fertile Ground Festival of New Works this last January/February.

Mark and Helena have performed for many years in the Northwest as well as in several European countries. Each began performing in their youth, Mark with his dad on stage in Portland, and Helena on Czechoslovak National Radio and TV in Prague. Little did they know then that, following their professional careers, they would once again be performing and having fun at it. Their stage name is 'GREATHOUSE of Music' and they have a line of CDs. Check out their website at: www.greathouseofmusic.com.
